

Design Choices

Lo-Fi:

This page is simple, and only displays the items that are currently in the cart. It shows the image, specific variant details selected, and has the option to edit the quantity. The price of each individual item is displayed along with the subtotal. This page is meant to display the basics to provide the user with enough information to feel comfortable with purchasing the items, but not enough to distract them.

Hi-Fi:

The cart page is minimalistic to avoid distracting the user from completing the purchase. The cart will show line items with minimal detail, only allowing the user to edit the quantity or remove the item. Again, this is done to narrow the options for the user, and ushers them towards the checkout.

Changes – The quantity is no longer a number input field. It now has plus and minus buttons to edit the value displayed. This was to make it easier to display the quantity on the cart page.